REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Claim 1

Claim 1 recites a computer-implemented method of matching an offer for a product with a quote, comprising: inter alia: selecting a preferred provider from a group of preferred providers; selecting another preferred provider from the group of preferred provider; until the offer is satisfied or until the group of preferred providers is exhausted and if the group of preferred providers is exhausted without satisfying the offer, attempting to satisfy the offer from a group of non-preferred providers.

The most closely prior art of record is U.S. Patent No. 5,331,546 to Webber. Webber discloses a travel planner system which automatically construct itineraries with available seats for a traveler's trip request (abstract). The system responds by finding the least costly but still valid itineraries in terms of a preset policy, individualized fro the particular traveler, regarding acceptable or desirable price tradeoffs between costs on the one hand and time and convenience on the other hand (col. 2, lines 5-10). The system has the ability to find not only the lowest fare on a given flight buy also the unprecedented ability to automatically find the flight or itinerary with the lowest fare, the ability to automatically take into account in this process the details of a preset, comprehensive corporate travel policy as well as details of persona travel preferences, the ability to show flight, fare, and seat avaialbity (col. 2, line 62-col. 3, line 2). Webber discloses a flight search procedure which finds all the itineraries which could be used to satisfy the trip request being processed and to rank these candidate itineraries in terms of "non-preference" factors and to rank them in terms of personal preference factors (col. 7, lines 53-64). However, as stated by the Board of Appeals, Webber neither anticipates or fairly and reasonable teaches a computer-implemented method of matching an offer for a product with a quote, comprising: inter alia: selecting a preferred provider from a group of preferred providers; selecting another preferred provider from the group of preferred provider; until the offer is satisfied or until the group of preferred providers is exhausted and if the group of preferred providers is exhausted without satisfying the offer, attempting to satisfy the offer from a group of non-preferred providers. The Board of Appeals has concluded, "Webber does not teach, and would not have suggested, providers (i.e., airlines) which meet the various preferred and non-preferred provider limitation".

Claim 12

Claim 12 recites a computer-readable medium having computer-executable instructions which, when executed on a computer, comprise: inter alia: ranking each preferred provider in a plurality of preferred providers according to a preferred criteria; and selecting a highest ranked preferred provider from the plurality of preferred providers.

The most closely prior art of record is U.S. Patent No. 5,331,546 to Webber. Webber discloses a travel planner system which automatically construct itineraries with available seats for a traveler's trip request (abstract). The system responds by finding the least costly but still valid itineraries in terms of a preset policy, individualized from the particular traveler, regarding acceptable or desirable price tradeoffs between costs on the one hand and time and convenience on the other hand (col. 2, lines 5-10). Webber discloses a flight search procedure which finds all the itineraries which could be used to satisfy the trip request being processed and to rank these candidate itineraries in terms of "non-preference" factors and to rank them in terms of personal preference factors (col. 7, lines 53-64). Claim 24

Claim 24 recites a computer system for matching offers with quotes, comprising: inter alia: a travel server component configured to obtain at least one quote associated with each provider in a plurality of providers to provide the product at a cost, the plurality of providers comprising at least two groups: a preferred providers group and a non-preferred providers group, each preferred provider having a distinct preference ranking.

The most closely prior art of record is U.S. Patent No. 5,331,546 to Webber. Webber discloses a travel planner system which automatically construct itineraries with available seats for a traveler's trip request (abstract). The system responds by finding the least costly but still valid itineraries in terms of a preset policy, individualized fro the particular traveler, regarding acceptable or desirable price tradeoffs between costs on the one hand and time and convenience on the other hand (col. 2, lines 5-10). group and a non-preferred providers group, each preferred provider having a distinct preference ranking. The Board of Appeals has concluded, "Webber does not teach, and would not have suggested, providers (i.e., airlines) which meet the various preferred and non-preferred provider limitation".

DeLorme (U.S. Patent No. 5,948,040) neither anticipates or fairly and reasonable teaches a computer system for matching offers with quotes, comprising: inter alia: a travel server component configured to obtain at least one quote associated with each provider in a plurality of providers to provide the product at a cost, the plurality of providers comprising at least two groups: a preferred providers group and a non-preferred providers group, each preferred provider having a distinct preference ranking. DeLorme disclosure teaches away a travel server component configured to obtain at least one quote associated with each provider in a plurality of providers to provide the product at a cost, the plurality of providers comprising at least two groups: a preferred providers group and a non-preferred providers group, each preferred provider having a distinct preference ranking. DeLorme teaches a computerized travel reservation an information systems that permits a user to custom-define and examine a travel route and/or plans based upon answers to he questions (col. 6, lines 57-59). A user can construct a highly selective travel route that incorporates waypoints selected by the user and establish a computer link with computerized ticket and reservation systems (col. 6, line 65 – col. 7, line 1).

The Examiner notes that the "web server component" recited in claim 24 refers back to a computing device in the specification on page 19 and in the drawings on Figure 2; the “travel server component” recited in claim 24 refers back to a server in the specification on pages 19-20 and in the drawings on Figure 2; and the “online travel service exchanger” recited in claim 24 refers back to a computing device in the specification on page 14 and in the drawings on Figure 2.
